Written Work

ENGLISH

1. Make a book report sandwich.

Draw slice of cucumber, tomato cheese and lettuce leaves; a layer of butter, and a couple of slices of bread.

Photocopy or make your drawings on appropriate colored sheets of paper—cucumber on green, tomato on red, cheese on yellow etc.

The sheets served as the ingredients for your book report sandwich. On the top slice of bread, write the title and the author of the book you had just finished reading. On the lettuce, write a brief summary of the book, write about the main character on the tomato slice. On the butter, describe the book's setting. Share the book's climax on the cheese. On the bottom piece of bread, draw a favourite scene from the story.

Staple together the sandwich layers.

2. Write parts of speech Acrostic poetry.

This holiday you may visit a park, museum, or may even go abroad or visit different places in the country. Whatever it is, you know it will be fun, & you'll want to keep some memories. Here's a creative way to do it..

What you need: Camera, Pencil or pens, Booklet paper.

What to do:

→ Wherever you go collect words for what you see, hear and feel.

→ When you get to your destination, do like any typical tourist: take some pictures! Enjoy everything about your experience!

→ Then, on the way to home or later that day, make your "Parts of speech Travel Guide" for today. Write the chosen part of speech vertically, in all capital letters, down the left side of the paper.

→ Now create an acrostic poem about this word, using only words that are of that part of speech.

This means that for the first line, you will need to think of a noun that starts with the letter 'N' such as Nest, Net or Noodle. Then go on the next line, and think of a noun that begins with the letter 'O' such as octopus, octagon or Ox. Continue in this way until all the vertical letters have been used.

→ Repeat for other parts of speech, then, compile all the parts of speech pages into a stapled booklet with your favorite trip photo on top. You'll have a creative, unique "Travel guide" memory.
